COMMENTARY

Jim Medd

I would like to thank those who have offered their help as I undertake the duties of the office afforded to me.

Our goal is to improve on the services offered by the N.S.C.A. and promote new growth. May I suggest that each one of us share our knowledge with a friend and encourage them to join our fine organization. I firmly believe that unshared knowledge, like unshared love, is totally worthless. Another way of sharing knowledge is by sending a story, short or long, to Scrip Talk editor, Bill Stump.

This is your organization. Please participate in its activities.

Happy Hunting!

EDITOR'S REPORT

I will officially resign as Editor on May 1, 1999. I have enjoyed my tenure as the Editor of Scrip Talk but sincerely think that new ideas and a new Editor is needed to keep the goals of our organization active as we prepare to enter a new century. What better time to have a change in the editorship than with the change in administration?

I want to thank everyone for their support during my two terms as President and as Editor. The many friendships I have made will always be remembered. I now step back, but not completely out of view. I will now have more time to concentrate on my hobbies and enjoy my retirement. I will keep in touch with articles and will be devoting the remainder of 1999 on concluding the reference book on scatter tags.

MEMORABILIA RESURRECTION

Our yearly accounting and inventory is conducted in January of each year. We have a good supply of NSCA Memorabilia on hand and it has not been offered for almost a year. With a good number of new members entering our ranks since the memorabilia has been offered, it has been determined to offer a special offering of this great variety NSCA collectibles to them and the membership at large. All proceeds will go to producing new items for 1999 and the new millennium.

It should be noted that the supply of most of the items listed are in limited quantity. Therefore, act now and take advantage of being able to acquire these very desirable collectibles. Also, the sale of these items help to offset our yearly expenses, making it possible to keep our annual membership dues the lowest of any collecting organization today. Both the cost of printing and the most recent postage increase causes some concern as to looking at a dues increase. However, none will take place this year, barring any unforeseen circumstances that would dictate same.

COAL MINING MEMORABILIA VIDEO BY NSCA, INC.

This one hour video tape is packed full of the history behind the rise of the coal mining industry in the United States. Intended as an educational tool for the current and future generations, it includes the evolution of the company store, examples of "scrip", the monetary exchange used by the mining community for purchases at the company store, from several of the states where coal was mined, content also includes an explanation of other mining collectibles such as post card, stock certificates, and the everyday tools and equipment used by the miner (hats, caps lamp, safety lamps, blasting cap tins) and much more.

Available postpaid for $29.95, payable to NSCA, Inc.

NSCA, INC. 27TH ANNIVERSARY KNIFE

By: Massey's

In 1992 and 1994 special commemorative knives were produced for W. C. Stump as a trial project to see if the membership would respond to the idea of a limited production knife being produced to commemorate the founding of the NSCA. The program was well received and beginning in 1995, the project was adopted by the NSCA, Inc. and a special one of twenty five produced knives were offered thereafter. In 1998, with the 26th Anniversary knife, production was cut to fifteen units. Only ten 27th Anniversary knives will be produced for 1999 and sold on a first come basis. This knife will undoubtedly become yet another rare collectible produced by the NSCA, Inc.

TOUCHED IN THE HEAD

By: W. C. Stump

It is ironic that similar events happening at the same time can make for an interesting story. But, the other evening I was going through my files and clearing out my desk drawers preparing to close out my term as President of the NSCA when I came across my first inventory of coal company scrip that I had taken in 1985. As I read over the list, I noticed the names I had jotted down as to whom I had obtained each piece from. The names of Paul Whitaker, Woody Christian, Jim Cooper, Corkey Snodgrass, Howard Short and R. R. Tippy stood out. My notes brought back memories of when I first became interested in coal company scrip and my mind slipped into the past as I remembered and chuckled at the thought of anyone wanting to collect coal company scrip. I also recalled the day I was present when a group of scrip collectors held a meeting in early 1972 that led to the official formation of the NSCA. The location was on Pine Mountain at the old Mount Aire Motel. As I pondered the past, the ring of the telephone brought me back to the present. Answering the call I immediately recognized the gravelly voice of my old friend and fellow scriptor, R. R. "Tip" Tippy. It seems that he was involved in the same type of office clean up, and at the same time as I, and had come across a newspaper clipping in his files dealing with the same subject as my I had just remembered. The irony was that as I was thinking about the Harlan scrip meeting in Loyall, Ky., Tip had come across a newspaper clipping in his files covering that very meeting at his home in Carterville, IL and called me to ask if I could take the article and possibly use it for an article for Scrip Talk. He agreed to send me the clipping and after reading same, I thought that by retelling it would let everyone go back into the past and see what the public read about this historic meeting for Scriptors and the NSCA, Inc.

The Harlan Daily Enterprise had a feature writer by the name of Castle Rock Smith who covered local interest events. His article provided information that I never knew before about the events leading to the formation of the NSCA, prices scrip brought at the first auction, and who the first auctioneer was.

Mr. Tippy informed me that his late friend, Paul Whitaker was the host, but he chaired the meeting, at Paul's request, and that Paul's wife, Aretta, member number 77, was the registrar.

At the time of this meeting, I was about as much interested in collecting coal company scrip as I was about collecting rocks from the moon. I happened to be at the motel, "set in the midst of spectacular scenery", as described by Castle Rock Smith, because I was there to inspect the restaurant as part of my duties as Environmentalist with the local health department. Upon entering the lobby, I noticed a rather large group of guests, according to Mr. Smith, "forty-five delegates from five states", and recognized my late friends Paul Whitaker and Howard "Woody" Christian among the group. I had sold both scrip over the years and thought both of them, as my Granny used to say, a "little touched in the head" for collecting what I considered at the time to be "worthless junk."

Mr. Smith described the meeting as being similar to a meeting of coin collectors. He noted in his article that "The scrip collectors had heretofore been an informal group, and it was decided at this meeting to set up a formal national organization. Walter Caldwell, Fayetteville, WV, was elected the temporary president."

At this meeting, the name for the proposed organization was discussed, but no action was taken. However, it was decided that a contest be held with a prize to the winner was one of the suggestions accepted. Don Edkins, Williamsburg, Ky., who would later author the first reference book on the subject, proposed that a committee be appointed to present By-Laws at the fall meeting and was, according to Smith, "promptly named the chairman and told to choose the ones he wanted to work with him." Walter Caldwell, the Association's first president volunteered to issue a bulletin to keep members in touch with each other.

One of the early charter members, Ed James, Charleston, WV, organized the first scrip auction and was the auctioneer. The highest bid of the day, a bag of one thousand assorted tokens, sold to Ed Sigmon, Hazard, Ky., and formally of Harlan, for an astounding $82.50. As my Granny would say, "Man alive", has scrip gone up in value since 1972.

That was my first encounter with a group of organized scrip collectors. The meeting so little interested me that I don't remember reading about it at the time. It would be another 13 years before I would ever come in contact with the "touched in the head" group of scrip collectors again. Twenty-seven years have passed, the NSCA, Inc. has come a long way, and I am now as "touched in the head" as any of the pioneers that met that day in 1972 at the Mt. Aire Motel, on Pine Mountain, Harlan County, Kentucky.
